

China's Hubei to relocate/re-engineer 144 chemical plants before 2025

DATE: 2018-03-24

China's central province of Hubei has listed a total of 144 chemical plants that will be relocated or re-engineered before 2025, a step toward its goal of keeping production of toxic chemicals away from densely-populated areas.

Small and middle-sized plants are required to complete the relocation/re-engineering before 2020, according to a document released by Hubei provincial government in late December 2017. (Please see the complete list below)

Some 28 producers are rejecting the option to move their operations into chemical parks, according to a local government official, adding that their plants are at risk of permanent closure.

China's central government in September last year ordered all provinces to work out a detailed plan on relocating plants of dangerous chemicals away from cities.
