

Collecting responses

By default, any project you create has a status of New. This prevents respondents from taking your survey while you're still building it.

Once your survey is ready, you'll head over to the Distributions module to start collecting responses. This page outlines how to start, pause, and resume response collection for your survey (during which the status of your project will change), as well as the effects of any of those actions. Also discussed are options for editing an active survey and setting an expiration date.

Click on the following links to find answers for:

- Starting response collection
- Editing an active survey
- Pausing response collection
- Resuming response collection
- Setting a survey expiration date