Budapest, May 3, 2013 (MTI-ECONEWS) - A decision by petrochemicals company TVK to build a butadiene plant in Tiszaujvaros (E Hungary) could attract other investors that use the component of synthetic rubber as feedstock to the city, Roland Mengyi, an MP for the area, said on Thursday.

Talks have taken place in China in recent months with the aim of bringing manufacturing capacity to Tiszaujvaros, and officials from one of China's biggest tyre factories will visit the region in May, Mr Mengyi said.

TVK parent MOL said earlier it will spend about € 100 M to build a butadiene plant in Tiszaujvaros.
