China's Maoming Petrochemical, a subsidiary of Sinopec, will shut its 100,000 tonne/year butadiene (BD) line at Maoming in Guangdong on 9 March for maintenance, market sources said on Friday.

The 100,000 tonne/year BD line in Guangdong province will shut for 40 days until second-half April for maintenance, market sources said.

The company will continue to run its smaller 50,000 tonne/year BD line at the same site at full rate during this period, market sources added.
