Business Term Status

The Business Term is currently awaiting approval by the Data Governance Committee .

Business Term Definition

For a manufactured product, the origin material is one component of the BOM, used to manufacture the product, with the indication of its origin site. For a traded material, the origin material is itself, but with the indication of the origin site. In both cases, the origin material is managed with a Special Procurement Key (SPK). When a component is procured from another plant, using a special procurement key, the requirement is immediately visible at the sourcing plant. Even when the STR/STP is not yet created, it will appear under the form of "Dependent Requirements " in the planning table (MD04) of the origin site, and contribute to the determination of the total needs of the origin site, and to the calculations of its local MRP.
